Powers at Odds Over Plans For World Economic Parley

By the Associated Press.

The big powers of the world were in a more or less definite state of disagreement today about what to do to repair the broken wheels on the wagon of world trade.

London and most of the old world capitals wanted to tackle the war debts and reparations trailer too, but Washington held out firmly against coupling these jobs.

Besides this, the government of the United States favors a much wider membership for the proposed world economic conference at London than the British statesmen and press have advocated. Secretary Stimson made it plain that silver would have an important place at the conference.

The London statements of recent days have voiced qualified approval of a conference among the United States and those nations of Europe which will attend the Lausanne war debts and reparations conference June 16.

This would amount to an adjourned meeting of the Lausanne conference to consider economic existence of war debts and reparations.

But the United States yesterday signified that since the qualified approval of a conference among the United States and those nations of Europe which will attend the Lausanne war debts and reparations conference June 16.

The new German government said it would be pleased if the United States would participate in a London conference, but suggested that world confidence could not be restored "until reparations payments ended."

Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, told the senate today, action must come quickly.

The first requisite, he said, was cancellation of the war debts and reparations, and then there must come "wide application of the principles of the Hoover debt proposals" to halt worsening conditions.

He asked the world's statesmen to lose no time in forming a united front of will and sane courage, for impatient peoples in his opinion could not wait any longer.

SAITO PLEDGES JAPAN TO IMPARTIAL ACTION

TOKYO, June 3.—(P)—Japan's new premier, Makoto Saito, pledged the new government today to impartial action to maintain order, relieve unemployment and stabilize living conditions.

He said the national government would seek the support of both the big political parties—the minseitō and seiyūkai—but would favor neither.

In his address as foreign minister the premier said Japanese troops must remain in Manchuria to maintain order.

GERMAN JURIST FIGHTS NUDISTS

BERLIN, June 3.—(UP)—While the mode for nude cults is generally accepted by the bulk of Germans, having been well established even before the war, at least one public official, the magistrate of the small township of Selchow, near Berlin, is waging a valiant, if somewhat difficult, battle against what he considers a "violation of the moral purity of his community by a nudist society."

Magistrate Ramm attempted last fall to prohibit the Adolf Koch School of Body Culture from carrying out its exercise on the 96-acre tract of woods and field which it has leased within his jurisdiction.

Officials of the Koch school declare they already have met Ramm more than half way, complying with requests which they were not obliged to fulfill, if somewhat difficult, battle against what he considers a "violation of the moral purity of his community by a nudist society."

Ramm, on his part, declares the fencing is inadequate. He regrets the fact that it is not within his power to close the school immediately, but promises that he will maintain a sharp season over the colony in the coming season. Although the school has already satisfactorily passed two inspections of officials of the province of Brandenburg, Ramm, on the first Sunday of spring, announced the township would conduct its own inspection.

Constables were dispatched to the school where they found 150 nude men and women sporting themselves at gymnastic games. No arrests were made, however, since neither the constables nor the township jail was large enough to accommodate such a number, and the nudists warned that if a few were taken then all would go together.

First National Bank Officers, Employees Annual Outing and Dinner at East Lake winners of the bathing beauty contest staged by employees of the First National Bank Friday afternoon at the East Lake Country Club. The contest was a part of an outing at the club, which included a golf match, water sports and a buffet dinner Friday night. In the lower picture are Mrs. J. D. Morgan, winner of the second prize in the beauty contest; John K. Otley, president of the First National Bank; Miss Martha Bowles, winner of the first prize of $10, and Miss Pearl Maddox, third prize winner. In the picture at the top are the contestants, who include Misses Nancy Rietz, Ollie Neely, Dexter Parker, Lucile Allen, Zella Sorrells, Frances Kelley, Ruth Mims, Eugene Adams, Coralie Tyson, Corine Eberhart, Lillian Marbut, Susie Dodson, Pearl Maddox, Avis Wynn, Ermalee Venable, Mabel Bradshaw, Martha Bowles, Evelyn Hampton and Mrs. J. D. Morgan.

The annual outing and picnic of the employees of the First National Bank of Atlanta, Rome, Savannah and Columbus was held Friday at the East Lake Country Club, with more than 500 employees in attendance. The program for the day included golf, swimming, a picnic, beauty contest, dinner at the club, and a dance with Perry, Boylston, Bechtel and Chesley. Bobby Jones played an exhibition round during the afternoon with John K. Otley, Tom Griner and Charles Edwards.

Prizes were awarded by Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the executive committee, who made an address at the dinner at the club. W. D. Roberts is president of the Bank Club and was assisted in the preparation for the outing by G. W. Bosman.

GENUINE COWBOYS STILL RIDE RANGE

BY WENDEL BURCH.

RENO, Nev., June 3.—(UP)—Just how wild is the west today?

Are there any "real" cowboys left? Have the dude ranches completely supplanted true ranch life? The city dweller, or train tourist, whose closest approach to the west is through a story, motion picture, or Pullman window, may well wonder whether the old days of the buckaroo and vaquero have vanished completely, but in fact they have not.

Scattered along the edges of the most desolate parts of the west, where they have been driven by the march of sheep and civilization, are ranches where the old traditions still are observed.

Near Amodeo, Cal., the capital of what once was as rich a cow country as any in the United States, a number of such men are now living. One is the foreman of a cattle ranch owned by the Humphries interests, large operators throughout northeastern California. Another has his own ranch, and makes a living partly through trading and selling horses he rounds up on the surrounding mountains and high basins.

Wild horses roam a part of this region. They are few in number now, but constitute an unwanted quarry at best. Cowboys finding them either round them up and corral them, or shoot them, for a wild horse now is usually fit for one thing only—beaten feed. Most are small, poorly formed, and untamable.

Holding the lines along the more remote ranges are "real" cowboys. Some of them have nothing to do but remember the old days, when thousands of cattle grazed the summer and winter ranges, but others are still making a living keeping the dogs in check, riding fence, or breaking horses. Chaps and ten-gallon hats are put to practical use as well as ornamental purposes, and riding is necessary art among them.

GILBERT OGG WINS

HIGH O'KEEFE AWARD

Gilbert Ogg, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Ogg, 1074 Columbia avenue, was presented with the Hastings honor cup at the O'Keefe Junior High school commencement exercises by S. M. Hastings, donor of the cup and principal of the school.

This trophy, which is awarded annually to the outstanding student who has made the best record during the three years, is considered the highest honor a student can receive at O'Keefe.

Young Ogg's prominent participation in school activities brought his sum total of points higher than any of his classmates. During the past year he was president of the student body, official representative to the National Education Association meeting at Washington, a member of the Log staff, and active in class athletics. He will enter Boy's High school next fall.

ROOSEVELT FLAYS "BUCK-PASSING"

(Tammany office-holder removed because of huge unexplained bank deposits), Judge Seabury asked the legislative committee to present the evidence to the governor, and the committee refused.

"Judge Seabury sent it himself. I acted."

"If the evidence in any case now before the legislative committee in their judgment or that of their counsel warrants, it is time for the legislative committee and their counsel to stop talking and do something."

"It is not the time for political sniping or buck-passing."

The statement was Roosevelt's answer to an intimation from Seabury that he was delaying the filing of charges to allow the governor to take the initiative if he chose.

It brought a variety of reactions and comments.

State Senator Samuel Hofstadter, committee chairman, and other republican members of the inquiry board read the statement in silence.

Assemblyman Irwin Steigut, democratic minority committee member, declared:

"The governor has hit the nail on the head when he refers to sniping and buck-passing. All Judge Seabury is attempting to do is to toss the whole situation into the realm of politics."

"He knows full well he has nothing upon which to base charges against Mayor Walker."

Roosevelt's campaign managers said the governor had demonstrated in vigorous manner he will not allow himself to be made the dupe in any plan to embarrass him on the eve of the national convention, at which he hopes to be nominated for the presidency.

The mayor himself refused to comment.

Tammany leaders expressed relief at the governor's stand and repeated their claim that there is no ground for a removal demand in any of the testimony against Walker.

Meantime, James A. Farley, field marshal of the Roosevelt forces, eyed with satisfaction what he called the growing sentiment for Roosevelt in the "favorite son" states of Illinois, Texas and Oklahoma.

As the convention approaches political observers are watching with interest a complex situation centering around the question of who will put Roosevelt in nomination at Chicago.

The custom is for the nominating speech to be made by a delegate from the candidate's own state. Roosevelt, with his famous "happy warrior" speech, nominated Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

This year Smith is not in a position to return the honor. He has broken politically with the governor, and is a candidate himself.

The present preference of Roosevelt managers is Robert F. Wagner, United States senator from New York.

Wagner is a close friend of both Roosevelt and Smith and is a Tammany man. He will be a candidate for reelection in November.

His friends here say he is not likely to go against the wishes of John F. Curry, Tammany leader, if he is asked to make the nominating speech.

That leaves Curry in an odd position, for he has not yet in any way expressed a preference for any candidate for the presidency.

If he raises no objection to Wagner nominating Roosevelt, the governor's supporters say, it will be taken as an inference he does not look with disfavor on the nomination of Roosevelt.

Curry, in addition to being on friendly political terms with democratic leaders in Illinois and New Jersey, which have 90 convention votes, claims control of about 50 New York state votes.

SEABURY WILL GIVE REPORT NEXT WEEK

PITTSBURGH, June 3.—(P)—Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstadter legislative committee in New York, said tonight Governor Roosevelt will be given a report on the Mayor James J. Walker inquiry "as early as possible next week."

The veteran lawyer, spending the night in Pittsburgh en route to Washington and Jefferson College at Washington, Pa., where he will address a graduating class, "read with interest" today's statement of Governor Roosevelt.

"The executive said it was the duty of the committee and Seabury himself to make charges against Walker 'if they believe they have sufficient cause,' without waiting to make a formal report to the next legislature. 'I have read the statement of Governor Roosevelt. I will be in my office Monday morning and I'll see to it that a transcript of the record and an analysis of the testimony concerning Mayor Walker reaches the governor as early as possible," Seabury commented.

He declined to venture beyond this statement, however.

ROOSEVELT ADVISORS

RAP SEABURY'S METHODS

ALBANY, N. Y., June 3.—(P)—Governor Roosevelt's advisors at Albany tonight expressed the view that while a transcript of testimony might be a form of presenting charges against Mayor Walker to the executive, it was inconsistent with the precedent established by Samuel Seabury when he asked for the ouster of another Tammany official, former Sheriff Thomas M. Farley.

Word of Seabury's intention to send the transcript and testimony to the governor next week reached the capitol after Mr. Roosevelt had left for his Hyde Park home.

His friends said that if he accepted the testimony and analysis as a charge, it would be reluctantly and with the feeling that Seabury had not followed ethical procedure of listing formal charges based on the testimony given the committee.

Mr. Roosevelt previously had been described as feeling restrained from any form of action in the case due to what he viewed the doubtful status of the investigation.

"Good bread makes any sandwich better"

Sandwiches can be divided into three classes, lunch sandwiches, tea sandwiches and picnic sandwiches. In all three kinds the qualities found only in good bread are the qualities you want the bread to impart to the sandwich. Pick the kind you are interested in and see if this isn't right.

LUNCH SANDWICHES

The kind working men and active growing youngsters need to supply the energy depleted by strenuous activity. These sandwiches must be highly nutritious and retain their appetizing appearance and flavor for several hours. Good bread has great food value and is easily and quickly digested. Ninety-three percent of it is assimilated and converted into the energy and strength so vital. Its soft, silky texture and fine close grain give it an attractive appearance—and hold the freshness.

TEA SANDWICHES

These thin delicate sandwiches should be refreshing and have an attractive, inviting appearance that will do credit to the hostess. While there are many ways of preparing tea sandwiches every one of them demand that the bread be most attractive in both flavor and appearance. Here a soft satiny texture and a fine close grain is essential. Good bread will likely provide the margin of difference that causes guests to ask, "How did you make these delicious sandwiches?"

PICNIC SANDWICHES

This group includes those used for buffet suppers and other occasions. The nutritional elements of lunch sandwiches are combined with the special attractiveness of tea sandwiches. The qualities demanded in the other two are again required so be sure to use good fresh bread. Its use will avoid the dry tastelessness sometimes found and will make the sandwiches appetizing and inviting.

Beaches of Southeast Calling Atlantans as Vacation Season Begins

TWO OF DIXIE'S SEASHORE FRONTS ATTRACT CROWDS

Georgia Railroad inaugurates Excursion Fares to Playground Centers. Georgia Tech Ramblers Play at Isle of Palms.

BY VICTOR BARRON.

Summertime in all its glory of beauty—from brilliant sunshine and fragrant flowers to growing crops of all kinds, has ushered in a new vacation time.

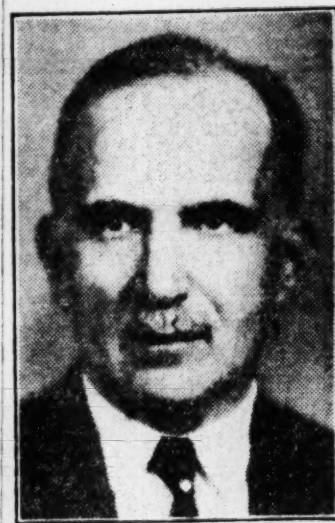

Georgia and the southeast invites you to compare her advantages with those of other resorts anywhere in the country. With school days over for the season, thousands are planning summer trips, and in majority instances at the most economical expenditure possible.

Yes, indeed, "The Beach" is calling—Dixie's most interesting and historical ocean front resorts, with their ideal combination of superb scenery, healthful living conditions and accommodations carefully planned to meet all requirements, are beginning to be the uppermost thought and destination in the minds of vacationists in this community.

PLAYGROUND CENTERS. The Georgia railroad, founded in 1834, and one of the oldest and most modern traction systems in the south has, inaugurated seashore excursion

S. Guthman Leads Atlanta Envelope to National Fame

39 Years of Success

S. GUTHMAN, president of the Atlanta Envelope Company, 505-11 Stewart avenue, S. W. Mr. Guthman has been president of this Atlanta firm since the day of its founding in 1893.

One of Atlanta's pioneer business concerns, the Atlanta Envelope Company, has been under the direction of a single individual since the day of its founding, over 39 years ago. S. Guthman is the president of this well-known company today, as he has been since 1893.

Even more remarkable than this fact is the growth that the company has passed through. Before the turn of the century the company confined its activities to Atlanta and a small surrounding territory. Today it supplies envelopes to business houses and manufacturers all over the nation.

At least one notable improvement in envelopes is attributable directly to Mr. Guthman. Sometime ago, after repeated experimentation and study, he invented the four-in-one pay envelope. Used for pay roll purposes by mills and manufacturers with 25 or more employees, this patented envelope saves both time and expense since, as its name reveals, it serves four distinct and useful purposes. The four-in-one is manufactured exclusively by the Atlanta Envelope Company.

Being manufacturers of envelopes, the Atlanta Envelope Company is able to provide any type or style of commercial envelope its customers require. According to Mr. Guthman, this is proving a great help to many of their customers, since small changes in envelopes can frequently be made, resulting in worthwhile economies—not only in the cost of envelopes themselves, but in mailing room expense as well.

less you are looking for "mountain climbing," your vote will probably be for the beach. Wrightsville Beach, a delightful, knowable, worthwhile folk from the entire southeast and wider territory.

At this resort you will find many attractions aside from surf bathing. You may fish, golf, horseback ride, dance at Lumina open air ballroom, with music furnished by a college orchestra of prominence, and there are no mosquitoes.

ISLE OF PALMS. It is expected that all Atlantans will visit Isle of Palms (Charleston, S. C.), popular seashore resort, during the season. The famous Georgia Tech Ramblers, who under the leadership of E. L. Howell, have won wide popularity among WASP students and dance lovers of Atlanta, have been employed by W. O. Christian, lessee of the Isle of Palms hotel, to furnish music at the hotel and dance pavilion during the season.

If you have not visited the Isle of Palms, you certainly have a treat coming to you. This is one of the finest beaches on the Carolina coast. Perfect for beach driving, absolutely safe for surf bathing, no undertow. The Isle of Palms hotel is a modern seashore hotel, with private and connecting baths, excellent cuisine, featuring sea food and chicken dinners. Attractive lobby, large, cool dining room, overlooking the ocean. The rates are most reasonable.

AWNINGS GREAT ASSET TO HOME, ASSERTS COUCH

Atlanta Tent & Awning Co. Offers Big Variety of Patterns at Lowest Prices for Best Grades.

Home is the foundation of civilization. It breeds love, peace and the background of prosperity and contentment.

From the doorsteps where we with loved ones dwell, the forces that radiate happiness and sunshine within, that solve the problems of families and inspire the ambition of American men and women, is home.

Thus, home is measured from its front hedge to the backyard fence. The Atlanta Tent and Awning Company, one of the largest and most successful concerns of its kind in the United States, with its factory and offices located at East Point, where it was founded about 40 years ago, is offering to its thousands of customers here and throughout the country one of the largest and most wanted lines of awnings to be observed in the country.

The company, which retails awnings, tents, canvas coverings of all kinds, tarpaulins, bags and kindred lines, and employing three city salesmen and three "road" men covering the southeast, is under the presidency of W. G. Couch, A. G. Couch, vice president and treasurer, and J. D. Couch, secretary and manager.

BIG ASSET AT HOME. To company, without obligation to customers, will make measure, estimate costs and other details prior to placing orders, and has a reputation of counting the erection of awnings within two or three days, whether they be for the home, apartment, mercantile establishment, office building, or for other purposes.

There is no greater asset to a home than having its outer appearance as attractive and inviting as the interior. And to bring about this, nothing could add more beauty and comfort than an array of appropriate awnings, harmonizing with the color scheme of the home and conform with the interior furnishings and decorations, from furniture, hangings, wall paper, accessories, carpets, paintings and other effects embodied within.

J. D. Couch declares that this is the logical time to buy awnings and add to the beauty and comfort of the home, stressing the extremely low prices for the most popular patterns made from the highest grade material available. He estimates that awnings today are selling at from 25 to 35 per cent of their peak prices.

Beautiful Granite Quarry at Elberton, Ga.

A view of one of the most beautiful granite quarries in the world at Elberton, Ga., of which B. F. Coggins (inset) is president and C. Comolli, vice president and general manager. Some of the most magnificent monuments, buildings and mausoleums in the country were made of granite and marble from the Comolli and Coggins interests in Georgia, the Carolinas and Tennessee. Georgia, having already made great strides as a producer of high-grade granite, in due time is destined to become the leader of the granite-producing states. Elberton county is destined to become the hub of this fast-growing industry.

Bank Clearings.

Bank clearings in Atlanta during April aggregated $130,353,239.45, against $130,101,104.10 during March, 1932.

Georgia Makes Strides as Large Producer of High-Grade Granite

Long since recognized as one of the largest granite centers of the country, Georgia is making steady progress in furthering the development of this industry through the nationwide business being done by the Georgia Granite Corporation at Elberton, under the presidency of B. F. Coggins, of Atlanta, and C. Comolli, one of the outstanding granite and marble authorities in the country.

The material—unfinished and finished—from the quarries at Elberton and other granite and marble quarries of the Coggins and Comolli interests in Georgia, North and South Carolina and Tennessee, is known throughout the United States.

The material of the quarries goes to 44 states, including California and Oregon, Massachusetts (a granite center) and a great deal is shipped into New York state. Some of the most beautiful and modern monuments, mausoleums and buildings in the country are constructed of Georgia granite.

The Gordon monument, erected to the memory of the famous statesman and soldier on the state capitol grounds in Atlanta, was made of Ogleby blue granite. The monuments of the late Asa G. Candler, J. P. Stevens, and others widely known in this section, were made from granite from the quarries of the Elberton plant. Mr. Comolli's interests also include the Columbia Marble Company at Marble, N. C.; the Southern Quarrying Company at Elberton; Piedmont Granite Company of Carleton; Berkeley Granite Corporation of Atlanta, in which W. H. Allen is associated. "Elberton Blue Stone Eternal" is recognized throughout the country as one of the finest granites produced in the world.

The magnitude of the various interests of the corporation is evident by the fact that their production last year involved a revenue of more than $1,250,000.

Coca-Cola Dividends.

Coca-Cola Company will distribute $3,500,000 as dividends on July 1.

LIFE INSURANCE

The Ideal Investment---A Word to the Wise
The depression has taught men that you do not have to "die to win" on a life insurance policy. They now realize that it is the one investment still worth 100 cents on the dollar.

"The USE of money," according to Benjamin Franklin, "is all the advantage there is in having money."

Certainly, the hoarding of money neither promises the safety of the individual nor affords any advantage to the nation.

Life insurance provides far greater safety and assures the use of money advantageously for the benefit of both the individual and the nation.

OKLAHOMA FLOOD CLAIMS SIX LIVES

Waters Sweep Suddenly Over Capital After Torrential Rains.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 3.—(AP) Flood waters that surged with tragic suddenness over a wide section of a sleeping city were reported by authorities here early this afternoon to have taken a known toll of six.

Five bodies, those of two women, a boy and two girls were recovered. A horseman also was believed to have lost his life in the surge of water from a river and a creek early today.

Trapped in scores of houses, tents and cabins in the low lying southern sections of the city, including the municipal camp for the destitute, an estimated 700 homeless families presented a grave problem.

At least 20 persons were missing, many more were saved by clinging to houseposts and finding refuge in trees and 14 were sent to hospitals, suffering exposure.

Charitable organizations set up an emergency relief organization, the Red Cross appealing for $50,000. Governor Murray turned over $1,000 from the state emergency relief fund to help finance the work.

National guardsmen aided organized civil authorities in the rescue of many entire families, but 65 hungry boys, their food supply ruined, were marooned in a county owned school east of the city.

Peak of the water was believed past at noon.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, with Dr. D. P. McGee, pastor of the Decatur Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Horace Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church of Decatur, officiating. Burial will be in the Decatur cemetery.

Miss George, the daughter of Mrs. W. Henry George, and the late Mr. George, formerly resided in Atlanta, where her father was well known in business before his death some years ago. She was active in the affairs of Inman Park Methodist church and in the Joseph Habersham chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She was a graduate of Agnes Scott College.

In addition to her mother, with whom she made her home, she is survived by a number of cousins, including Mrs. R. C. Omer, Robert Vaughn Omer, Homer George, former well-known Atlanta newspaperman, and Marshall George, who is an official of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Golden Eaglet Awarded to Six Girl Scouts

Mrs. Frank Holland, commissioner of the Atlanta Girl Scouts, shown awarding the Golden Eaglet to six Atlanta girls at a party given at Rich's tea room Friday afternoon. The Golden Eaglet is the highest honor in the Girl Scout can receive, and represents three years of work in the organization. Left to right are: Ozma Tontak, Mrs. Holland, Miss Frances Holsenback, president of the Atlanta Golden Eaglets; Frances McDonald, Lotie Reed, Catherine Nix, Virginia Wilkinson and Helen Geffen. Members of the Scouts presented a play, "The Making of a Golden Eaglet," at the meeting, which more than 500 girls attended. The play traced the development of the work in all stages of being a Golden Eaglet. Only 31 girls in the city hold the honor. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

SOAP SCULPTURES ARE DISPLAYED HERE

A display of five of the national prize-winning originals in the national soap sculpture contest sponsored by Procter and Gamble was shown Thursday at the Maier and Berke-Gorham Company here. The display will remain through June 8.

The designs on display are the best of thousands submitted. F. R. Seeley, vice president and general manager of the company, said: "They are being sent to all stores affiliated with the Gorham Company."

RAILROAD MAN KILLS TENNESSEE WOMAN

LAFOLLETTE, Tenn., June 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Sophia Hatmaker was shot to death at her home today and a neighbor, Charlie Wright, 45, was taken to the Campbell county jail at Jacksboro, charged with the slaying.

Sheriff R. D. Davis said Wright, a railroad man, admitted the shooting, claiming trouble arose when he objected to Mrs. Hatmaker taking his daughter out at night.

Woman Loses Pension, Gains Jobless Husband

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Joe William Maner is a husband and out a pension and the husband's out of work.

Yesterday the husband she believed dead for seven years turned up unexpectedly and Mrs. Maner's $25-a-month widowed mother's pension ceased. She had been drawing it from the county for support of herself and two children.

Maner explained he had been "drifting" over the country and had never got up "serve enough" to return to his wife and babies. He was contrite about his appearance. "By my showing up," said he, "my family lost its pension and I have no job."

NO GUILTY PLEA SEEN FOR CURTIS

Ship Builder Will Be Arranged for Gross Deception in Court Today.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., June 3.—(AP)—John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Va., boatbuilder, will plead not guilty, it was authoritatively learned today, when he is arraigned tomorrow on a reported indictment accusing him of gross deception in the indubitable kidnapping mystery.

In view of his confession that he hoaxed Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh in the search for the abductors of his infant son, it had been believed up to now he would plead not vult and cast himself on the mercy of the court.

But Prosecutor Anthony Hauck, of Hunterdon county, indicated that defense counsel would ask for a reduction in bail from $10,000 to $5,000 when court convenes and the possibility arose that Curtis might be released in a few days. The prosecutor said he would fight any diminution of bail.

W. C. Pender, Norfolk, Va., attorney, arrived today for a conference with Curtis and solicited the services of a local lawyer, Lloyd Fisher. Pender is returning south tonight to raise the bail and Fisher will represent their client in the pleading tomorrow.

Defense counsel requested that the arraignment be conducted in Curtis' cell in the local jail to avoid publicity but Judge Adam O. Roberts said he would preside in open court. It is likely that the prisoners will be tried the week of June 27.

Another intermediary re-entered the spotlight today when Salvatore Spitalo, one of three men appointed by Colonel Lindbergh himself to comb the underworld, was arrested in a raid on a Broadway night club in New York and charged with violating the Sullivan anti-fur law.

VOICE IMPERSONATOR TO BROADCAST HERE

Ted Doolittle, the man with 22 voices, as a distinguished artist of the NBC network, will make his initial personal appearance Saturday night at 7 o'clock at the Pig-Whistle, 2143 Peachtree road, when he will do his stuff in an amplified broadcast.

He will repeat the broadcast every night at various Pig-Whistle locations, these to be announced in the newspaper.

Doolittle will give 22 characterizations, including such prominent people as Amos 'n' Andy, Helen Kane, ex-President Calvin Coolidge, Al Smith, Phil Cook and many others.

New Evidence Found, Lee's Lawyers Claim

Attorneys for J. D. Lee, now serving a life term for murder in connection with the death of Bonnie Lichtenstein, Friday filed an amendment to their extraordinary motion for a new trial, asserting they have uncovered evidence tending to prove that the bullet introduced at Lee's trial and said to have been removed from the slain man's body had never been fired from a .32-20 caliber pistol, the weapon alleged to have been used by the slayer.

Arthur W. Powell, chief of Lee's counsel, filed the amendment. Lee now is serving a life term on the chain gang near Chatsworth.

But Prosecutor Anthony Hauck, of Hunterdon county, indicated that defense counsel would ask for a reduction in bail from $10,000 to $5,000 when court convenes and the possibility arose that Curtis might be released in a few days. The prosecutor said he would fight any diminution of bail.

CAPT. HEALEY HEARD BY LOCAL VETERANS

Captain Timothy Healey, Anzac and British intelligence service veteran, gave reminiscences of Lawrence's Arabian campaigns and described the strategems used to thwart the famous war spy, Mata Hari, at a luncheon given to him here Friday by the American Legion post.

This was the first of a series of talks to civic and patriotic groups which Captain Healey is to give during his stay in Atlanta.

He arrived in Atlanta Thursday night to remain for a week or so as guest of Fred Gould, president of the Orange Crush Bottling Company. He was accompanied here by A. E. Reppening, of Chicago, vice president of the Orange Crush Company, and was met at the Terminal station by a group of officials of the Orange Crush Bottling Company, of Atlanta, and by American Legion officers.

On Friday he met Willis Haviland, American Airways executive and war ace, who served with the French and later with the American air forces, and who downed some 18 planes. He was honor guest at the weekly meeting of the American Legion and made calls on the mayor, the governor and county officials. He plans to talk before the Citizens, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups while here.

JUDICIARY REFORM APPROVED BY BAR

Association Hears Justice
Russell Defend Popular
Election of Judges.

ALBANY, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—The Georgia State Bar Association today adopted a resolution recommending "that a better method of selecting judges so as to free them from political influence be established in the state."

Hutton Lovejoy, president of the association, said he interpreted the resolution to mean the endorsement of a committee recommendation that judges be appointed by the governor.

The resolution also recommended creation of a council with powers outlined in the report of the committee on jurisprudence; that operation of the courts be unified and required to function under the supervision of the chief justice of the supreme court; and that appellate practice be simplified as far as possible by changes in the present rules.

The retiring president was named chairman of a special committee on judicial reform and empowered to name other members of the committee to co-operate with special house and senate groups studying proposed changes in the legal machinery of the state.

The association's action was taken after the white-haired chief justice of Georgia had unexpectedly taken the floor to defend the judiciary of the state.

Chief Justice Richard B. Russell Sr., speaking on a point of personal privilege, took the floor after the convention had discussed—for the most part favorably—a committee report recommending that the governor be empowered to appoint supreme court and superior court judges. Such appointments, to the supreme court, under the recommendations of the committee, would be made from a list of three names receiving the highest number of votes in an election among the members of the bar.

His voice shaking, Mr. Russell said "This may be the last I will ever address you but I want to put myself on record in defense of the judiciary of Georgia, great and small, and to assert that in my opinion the election of judges by the people is preferable to any conceivable scheme of appointment."

"It does not matter in what manner a man is elected if he is one who keeps his ear to the ground, for he will always have a cotton-string backbone and a loose hand behind his back."

"Unless popular education has been a failure it is inevitable that the people are going to object strenuously to any plan for selection of their judges by a few men."

"The selection of judges is not a new problem in Georgia and we will always have some who are ready to deny in toto the allegations of some inferior persons that the judiciary of the state is weak, inefficient or time-serving."

"I favor the present system of selecting judges no matter what may happen to me. My time is up in two years and the field is wide open to any man who wants to run. I shall submit my name to the people and do nothing more."

"All I want is your respect when I do right and your gentle pardon when I err."

The association's committee on jurisprudence, law reform and procedure last night submitted its recommendations—among them the appointment of judges by the governor, Justice S. Price Gilbert, of the state supreme court, Marion Smith, of Atlanta; H. H. Swift, of Columbus, and Judge A. B. Lovett, of Savannah, had discussed the committee report during the morning.

The convention was preparing to hear Judge John J. Parker, of Charlotte, N. C., of the circuit court of appeals when Judge Russell asked the privilege of the floor.

After the speech of Chief Justice Russell, the convention was declared in recess for a few minutes. Many lawyers crowded around the chief justice to commend him for his statement on the floor.

Judge Parker, in his address, defended the judiciary established by the federal constitution.

"There can be no doubt that there is a determined effort, he said, to destroy the jurisdiction which the federal courts have exercised since the foundation of the republic." He said these attacks were designed to impair in the power of the federal courts in their enforcement of the provisions of the constitution.

Judge Parker said the attacks came from three sources: "Those who believe in direct as distinguished from representative popular government," by the "socialist and near-socialist and the leaders of organized blocs, who desire to strike down the constitutional guaranties of individual rights, and who are engaged in the strongest bulwark of the rights of the individual" and by "those who, knowing little of the philosophy of government, are opposed to what they imagine is undue power vested in officials who hold office during life or long behavior." As Hamilton pointed out, in the Federalist, and is completely necessary that the kind of power vested in the federal judiciary be placed in men removed from the vicissitudes and temptations of politics."

Judge Parker was the chief speaker of the convention. He is senior judge of the fourth circuit court of appeals. Another speaker on today's program was Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of the fifth circuit court of appeals, who discussed "Federal Appellate Court Procedure."

The report of the association's committee on jurisprudence, law reform and procedure, presented last night, recommended numerous reforms in court procedure and administration in Georgia.

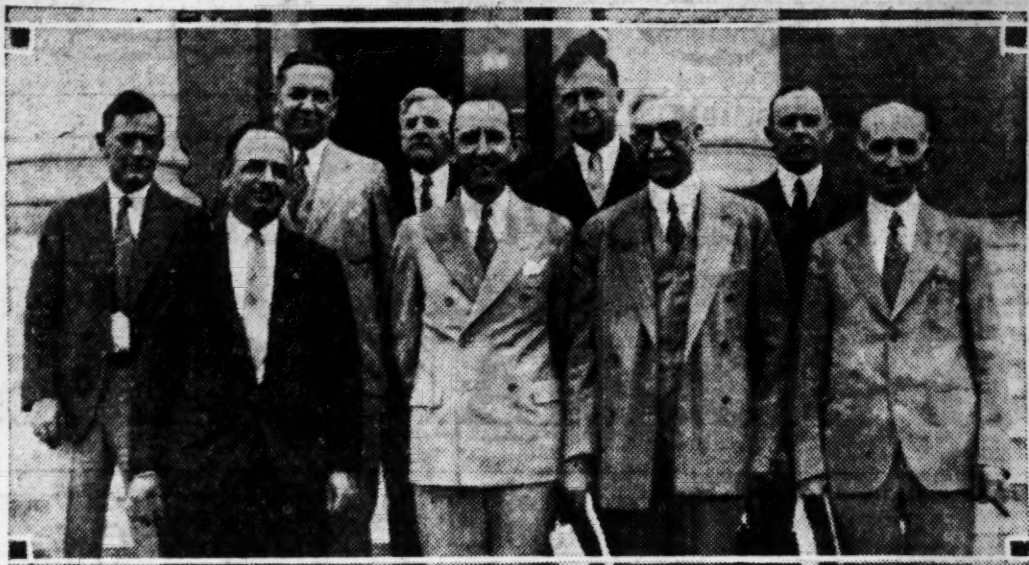

The committee, headed by John A. Sibley, of Atlanta, in its report urged that the judiciary of the state be made independent and relieved of the "necessity and temptation of keeping up their political fences."

It urged that all appellate jurisdiction in Georgia be placed in one supreme court, the steps be taken to "entirely renovate and remodel our appellate procedure and model the same after the present federal equity appeal procedure; and that the governor be vested with authority to appoint temporary judges to serve either on the supreme court or on the superior courts wherever there is a need to clear the dockets. Such appointments would be made from three names suggested to the governor by the chief justice."

Members of the bar, under the committee's recommendation, would vote on prospective successors to places on the supreme court and the governor's appointment would be made from a list of three names for each vacancy receiving the highest number of votes.

Hutton Lovejoy, president of the association, speaking Thursday said that while the legal profession has been "substantially inactive in investigation and improvement in the science and practice of law, other professions have been continuously engaged in research, testing, examining, experimenting, observing. He said that research by the medical profession had helped increase the average duration of human life in the United States from 35 years in 1790

WATKINS AGAIN HEADS PEACE OFFICERS' BODY

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—Ben T. Watkins, Macon chief of police, was re-elected president of the Georgia County and Peace Officers' Association at the association brought to a close its first convention of the combined groups today at the Hotel DeSoto.

All other officers, at the suggestion of Sheriff Siple, of city court of Savannah, were re-elected except one vice president who was unable to serve. W. C. Walton, clerk of court of Cartersville. In his place, J. H. Langford, clerk of court at Watkinsonville, was elected. The officers are as follows:

Ben T. Watkins, president; Thomas H. Jeffries, ordinary, Atlanta, first vice president; Usher Winslett, tax collector, Macon, second vice president; J. H. Langford, clerk of court, Watkinsonville, third vice president; John G. Richardson, clerk of court, Hartwell, secretary; H. G. Bradley, deputy sheriff, Atlanta, treasurer.

The convention chose Augusta for the 1933 meeting.

At the session this morning resolutions were adopted, reports read and William G. Sullivan, managing editor of the Savannah Evening Press, made an address on Jefferson Davis.

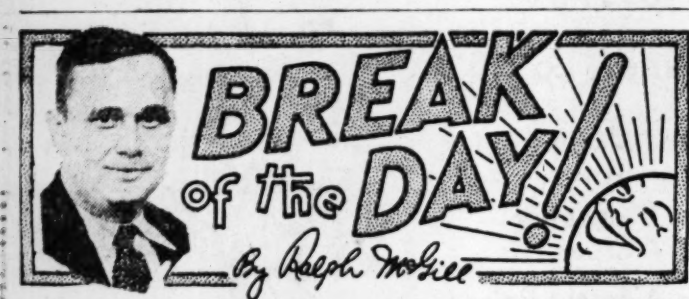

The association went on record as favoring regulation of motor carriers and revision of the statutes to permit the railroads to compete with buses, trucks and barges and airplanes.

In other words, the railroads would be given the right to engage in all forms of transportation.

Action of the chiefs of police and sheriffs in voting to renew their campaign for establishment of a state bureau of criminal identification was approved by the association.

C. Ray, chief of police of Albany, was awarded the recipient of the $100 cash and medal awarded annually by The Atlanta Constitution to the officer doing the most meritorious piece of police work during the year. The award is for the year 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937, 1938, 1939, 1940, 1941, 1942, 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1948, 1949, 1950, 1951, 1952, 1953, 1954, 1955, 1956, 1957, 1958, 1959, Gehrig Hits Four Home Runs as Yankees Swamp Athletics, 20-13 M'GRAW RESIGNS, TERRY TO MANAGE GIANTS

McGraw's Teams Gave Baseball Its First Real Drama

McGraw's Giants—he always liked big men. Times were when he'd have no other. It took a truculent, fighting man to be a Giant—riding to the park in a tallyho—dodging ripe fruit—bantering the crowd.

McGraw was a fire-eater then. Baseball was a man's game and the Giants were the men to capture the imagination. And how they won pennants—The Giants—The New York Giants—they became something synonymous for the big town—something for the fans in the bush league towns to talk about and follow.

Oh, the Giants were the team in those days. I must be getting old. It seems but a few years ago that I used to stand with other kids and watch a board that told the fate of the Giants—what a name for a ball club—in the World Series games.

And now McGraw is out of it, a sick man. Not old but up in years. Thirty years at the helm of the Giants—seeing good little men come in—seeing the game become a part of the machine age—all the fighting, brawling glamor of it gone—managers who were in the social register—ball players who studied painting—who didn't swear or use tobacco.

It was a game for giants in spirit as well as body. And it was getting to be something else. But still the truculent McGraw stayed in there, keeping the Giants in the running. No one ever went on the field against the Giants feeling in confident mood.

It was in 1904 that McGraw informed the American league winners that he did not consider them a member of the major leagues. They were a new league. He flew the black flag, did McGraw.

The Giants continued to be the Giants—there was Rube Marquard, winning 19 straight for the Giants in 1912. There were the Giants winning 26 straight ball games in 1916—a record that will probably stand for all times in the major leagues.

Great names flitted through the records then—Tesseraud, Perritt, Demaree, Benton—they started that streak by beating Nap Rucker on September 7 and ended it by a victory on September 30. Boston ended it next day.

Great names, great teams, great deeds and at the head of it was John J. McGraw, hating the name of Muggsy that had come to him in the old Oriole days, but still battling.

I think perhaps that baseball ceased to interest him. Pain came to him and illness. And the glamor was gone. His old comrade, later a foe, Wilbert Robinson, catcher for the old Orioles when McGraw was in the infield, was shunted out at Brooklyn. McGraw might have stayed in had there been the roly-poly figure of Your Uncle Wilbert to glare at across the diamond. But he was gone. There was no incentive.

And so he stepped out. Only Connie Mack remains of the old guard.

MEMPHIS BILL TERRY.

And an Atlanta boy, "Memphis Bill" Terry, so called because he signed with the Giants while living in Memphis, takes McGraw's place.

I think I know why. It was Memphis Bill Terry who brawled with McGraw each spring—telling McGraw to go jump in the lake—telling the owners to jump with McGraw—it was Terry who valed and raged—who hit home runs and was ready with his fists.

And so when the time came to select the manager it was inevitable that Terry should come first to his mind. He must have had a real affection for the brash young fellow who dared to cross him and the power that he.

Terry was an old Giant. And so McGraw named him as the manager, saying coldly that Terry would be solely responsible. He would be cold about it.

And now Terry, at 33, is manager of one of the most famous names in the baseball world—The Giants—taking the place of a man who had been looked upon as one of the game's greatest managers.

One less than Terry might have quailed—the world's baseball eyes will be on him—taking McGraw's place. It seems almost like an affront that anyone should dare—but Terry is one of the old Giants. McGraw will have some faith in Terry, the Terry who held out each spring, who brawled and fought and then stepped in and played great baseball.

And what of Terry? He was on the Atlanta sandlots for a few years. He played with Boys' High. (And that school, were it in session, would no doubt hold some sort of celebration.) Then came an obscure clerk's job in Shreveport.

And then a job in Memphis and a place on a semi-pro team. McGraw got him to break a promise and join the Giants—who wouldn't join the Giants if McGraw asked?

And now at 33 he heads the Giants. Sport does things like that. The whirl of 24 hours and a national figure steps down. Another goes up.

FITTING CEREMONIAL.

'Tis said that on the day they did Caesar to death in Rome that the sheeted dead did gibber in the streets and the heavens were rent with winds and thunder.

The major league home run records, set back in the gay nineties, was equalled by Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, who hit four home runs as McGraw stepped down at the Polo Grounds. The Yankees hit seven home runs in one game. And the Yankees and the Athletics hammered the baseball for a total of 77 bases.

Other teams hit hard. It was a terrific day in baseball and mighty thunderclap of base hits—a magnificent salute of 100 runs as the Little Napoleon stepped down from the throne he has occupied for 30 years.

LOPEZ WINS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., June 3. (AP)—Tony Lopez, Tampa featherweight, pounded out an easy decision over "Red" Hooks, West Palm Beach, in 10 rounds here last night. Lopez won every round and scored knockdowns in the fifth, sixth, seventh and tenth rounds. Each boxer weighed 128 1/2 pounds.

HORSES ALL EVEN.

CHICAGO, June 3. (AP)—Spanish Play and Pittsburgher, two great rivals in the four-year-old thoroughbred class, are all square again. Up until yesterday, Pittsburgher had a one-up margin over his foe of many races, but Spanish Play evened the records by defeating him soundly at Washington Park in the special feature.

LOUGHEGRIG HITS FOUR HOME RUNS IN 20-13 VICTORY

Ruth, Foxx, Cochrane, Combs and Lazzeri Hit for Circuit.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3. (AP)—Lou Gehrig performed a feat that is unequaled in "modern" major league history, that of hitting four home runs in one game, to carry the Yankees along into a series of record-breaking slugging stunts today as they pounded out a 20-to-13 victory over the Athletics.

Not since 1896, when Ed Deleahanty, of the Phillies, turned the trick, had a player hit four homers in a game and the only one who ever hit four in a row was Robert Lowe, of the Boston Nationals, who did it in 1894.

Lou touched Big George Earnshaw for his first three homers and Leroy Mahaffey for the fourth, all but one of them coming with bases empty. The home runs came on Lou's first four trips to the plate. He grounded out on his fifth time and Simmons ended his line on Gehrig's sixth attempt.

Three other Yankees, Babe Ruth, Earle Combs and Tony Lazzeri, hit homers, while Mickey Cochrane and Jimmie Foxx, of the A's, hit for the circuit to tie the two other standards. They were the major league record of seven in a game by one team and the American league mark of nine by two clubs. Other records which fell were the modern major league mark for total bases by one team and the American league standard for both teams.

The Yanks hit for 50 bases and Philadelphia for 27. The marks that fell were 46 by Brooklyn and 76 by the Yankees and Athletics in 1930.

Foxx's homer, which came in the ninth inning, was his nineteenth of the season, leaving him four up on Ruth, who clouted No. 15. Lazzeri's four-bagger, coming with the bases full in the ninth inning, finally settled the game and topped off a slugging performance which included a triple, a double and two singles.

Terrific Slugging

Lou Gehrig did something yesterday that no one else has accomplished in the major leagues since 1896. The big Yankee first baseman hit four home runs in consecutive times at bat to equal the major league record set by Deleahanty of the Philadelphia Nationals in 1896. This all happened in the game between the Yanks and A's which the New Yorkers won, 20-13. Ruth, Foxx, Cochrane, Combs and Lazzeri also hit for the circuit.

CHICKS DEFEAT CRACKERS, 6-5, TO GO IN LEAD

Atlanta Rallies in Sixth But Falls One Short. Jacobs Wins.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 3. (AP)—Batting every inch of the way, Memphis this afternoon defeated Atlanta and regained first position in the Southern league race. The count was 6-5 in favor of the Chicks. This evened the series at one-all.

Taking the lead in the third inning, the Chicks went on to win the game and finish the afternoon one game in front of Professor Engel's Chattanooga Lookouts. Engel's boys were swamped by the Barons, 15-2.

Elmer Jacobs, of the Chicks, was the victor over Johnny Morrison, although neither of the two finished the job. Morrison fell by the wayside in the fourth when the Chicks made four runs and five hits. Jacobs almost finished but was excused after McKee, a pinch-hitter, singled in the ninth with two out and Harry Kelly pitched one ball to retire Butler, another pinch-hitter, on a grounder to Prothro.

Before Morrison went out the Chicks made five runs and 11 hits off him. Bream, a big right-hander, allowed four hits and one run the last four rounds.

WINNING HOMER.

A home run over the back boards by Andrew Jackson Reese, the groceryman of Tupelo, off Bream started the fifth inning that ultimately proved the winning run. It was Reese's eleventh of the season.

Buster Chatham, the diminutive short stop of the Crackers, but with a man's arm, swung with a bat, put the Crackers in the ball game in the sixth when he crashed one over the wall with a runner ahead of him. They were the last two runs the Crackers got. Jacobs retired the opposition in order in the seventh and eighth and had two out in the ninth when his arm began to bother him and Chief Prothro took no chance of letting a seemingly big hit in the hand fly away.

The Chicks scored first in the third. Westling singled but was out at third when Cummings took Prothro's single and made a perfect peg to third. Prothro stole second and took the lead when Rowland heaved into center field. Hamel singled, scoring the Chief but Reese hit into a double play.

The Crackers took the lead in the fourth when Johnny Cummings, native son, blasted one against the back wall for a triple behind a single by Rosenthal and a double by Chatham. The latter's hit a lift into the temporary bleachers in left field that was held to two bases by ground rules. Rowland popped to Bobo for the third out.

RIGHT CHICKS.

Eight Chicks faced Morrison before he retired in the fourth. Hutcherson singled and Bell and Bobo were in field out. Rowland led the strike that Berger swung at get away from him and Hutcherson scored and Berger was out at first. That was the beginning of Morrison's downfall. Jacobs drove one into the temporary bleachers for a double, sending Berger to third. On another wild pitch Westling got his bat in the way of a ball and it dribbled to Fenton. There was a race and another wild pitch Westling went to third and then scored on Prothro's third single. Hamel singled, sending Prothro to third and finishing with Morrison. Bream went in. Hamel and Prothro started a double steal. Bream threw to first and when Prothro darted toward home, Jacobs turned their attention to him. Prothro slid safely back into third on a throw for him but instead of going to second, Hamel slid into first, upsetting Fenton. Prothro

POOR HEALTH IS REASON GIVEN FOR HIS ACTION

Former Atlanta Boy Gets Chance as Veteran Gives Up Helm.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, June 3. (AP)—After 30 years as manager of the New York Giants, baseball's most dramatic leader, John Joseph McGraw, suddenly announced his resignation today and turned over the management of the club to his 33-year-old first baseman, William Harold (Bill) Terry, former Atlanta who now is a Memphis resident.

Illness, which he had fought for the past few years with the same aggressive, unyielding spirit that characterized his 42 years in the game, forced McGraw to relinquish his pilot's job.

McGraw has been affected for some time by a sinus condition.

He reached his decision to resign, he said, after being advised he could make no further trips with the Giants this season. He then selected Terry to succeed him because: "It was my desire that a man be appointed who was thoroughly familiar with my methods and who had learned his baseball under me."

HOLDS STOCK.

McGraw said he will retain his stock holdings in the Giants and remain as vice president, assisting President Charles A. Stoneham. He declared he would be "on hand at all times, my health permitting, when needed" for counsel or advice by Terry, but made it clear the first base manager will have full, complete charge and control of the team and will have to assume entire responsibility therefor.

The appointment of Terry caught the baseball world with even greater surprise than the retirement of McGraw.

For several years the veteran's prospective successor has been a subject of conjecture. At one time the finger pointed to Rogers Hornsby but his Rajah's mysterious departure to Boston squelched this idea.

To quiet rumors over a year ago, President Stoneham announced McGraw had signed a new five-year contract. Then it was supposed Dave Bancroft, former shortstop and star of the Yankees, was to succeed McGraw. McGraw was being groomed for heavier responsibilities. Bancroft ran the team when McGraw was absent.

TOO MANY BOSSES.

Now, however, with the selection of Terry, there is doubt as to whether Bancroft will remain with the club at all. Neither the club's officer, McGraw nor Terry committed themselves as to Bancroft's future status today.

Terry, while saying the matter had not been settled, said he might stay "if he desired" but in the same breath "Memphis Bill" emphasized: "No club can have two or three bosses. One is enough and I will be boss of the Giants."

Terry has been known chiefly as one of the game's foremost sluggers and a capturing defensive player. His only previous managerial experience was for the latter part of the season 1923 with the Toledo club of the American association.

He came to the Giants the following year, soon replaced Long John Kelly as first baseman and clubbed his way into the top flight of hitters, capturing the National league batting crown with a mark of .401 in 1930 and finishing in a virtual tie last year with Chick Hafey and Jim Bottomley at .340.

ALWAYS AT ODDS.

To make the circumstances all the more extraordinary, Terry has had a reputation for being annually at odds with his club president, Stoneham, as well as McGraw, over salary matters. Told this spring he would have to take a 40 per cent cut in salary under the figure of $23,000 he was paid in 1931, Terry engaged in sharp verbal tilt with Stoneham. Finally he came to terms, at a compromise figure, in a conference in New Orleans over salary matters. Finally he came to terms, at a compromise figure, in a conference in New Orleans over salary matters.

Then, with a laugh, Terry recalled that the Giants bought him for no more than $750 from the Little Rock club of the Southern association, then sent him to Toledo for seasoning.

"Memphis Bill" will assume charge of the Giants at the Polo Grounds tomorrow, confident he can inject the club into the pennant race, despite its floundering start.

The 33-year-old southerner is a sharp contrast in personality to the forceful, compelling McGraw. The Memphis businessman is a product of a new era of baseball. His present salary, estimated at $20,000, is probably four times greater than that McGraw first received as manager of the Giants in 1902, although the prosperous post-war days and achievements boosted the veteran's salary above $50,000.

Home Run in Eleventh Gives Pirates 6-to-5 Victory Over Cubs

TONY PIET HITS CIRCUIT SMASH TO END BATTLE

Chicago Threatens in Last Frame But Sweetonic Tightens Up.

PITTSBURGH, June 3.—(AP)—A long home run into the long shadows in center field gave the Pirates a 6-to-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs after 11 innings of good and bad baseball today.

It was Tony Piet, hustling Pittsburgh second sacker, who broke up the game.

With none on and none out, Tony cracked Jackie May's first pitch out to the flagpole and then jogged home.

The Cubs threatened in their half of the eleventh. The first two batters singled, but Steve Sweetonic, who went the route, tightened up to fan Hornsby.

The next two were easy. Both teams hit hard and often. Smith, starting for the Cubs, made way for May in the eighth after the Cubs had grabbed a one-run lead.

The Cubs, however, tied it up in the ninth. Herman and Jurges came through with three hits apiece to lead the visitors' attack.

THE SPORTLIGHT

At Sharkey's Camp.

Late in the afternoon, after his day's training is over, it may be that Jack Sharkey sees the long parade march by—John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, Tommy Burns, Jack Johnson, Jess Willard, Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney and Max Schmeling—heavyweight champions dating back for 40 years.

But Jack Sharkey isn't thinking so much about that parade nor what it means in the way of tradition. The idea or thought connected with being the heavyweight champion of the world is secondary to his one main idea, which is the complete annihilation and destruction of one Max Schmeling when the two meet in just 17 days.

Sharkey always has felt that he lost the big title just after he had finished giving Schmeling a boxing lesson, preliminary to the impending knockout. It was Sharkey, of course, who uncloaked the low punch that gave Schmeling the title, but for all that his hatred of the German ever since has been intense.

There was no personal feeling in the matter when Dempsey mauled Willard all over the ring. There was no personal feeling to speak about when Tunney removed the crown from Dempsey's head. And Schmeling, for his part, seems to have no grudge against Sharkey. But the Boston sailor has a different temperament. He had no use for either Dempsey or Tunney, but they were his old pals compared to Schmeling.

So Sharkey has been pondering steadily for two years on his next shot at Schmeling, believing all this time that Schmeling has been wearing a crown that belongs on Sharkey's head.

There has been an intensity of feeling back of Sharkey's training, a burning desire to reach the big day and the long-delayed chance for revenge. This feeling will become even more pronounced as the day of the fight draws nearer.

Physically, Sharkey is in good condition. He has never had any trouble from the physical side.

Moods, mental attitudes and emotional explosions have been his trouble. There will be more reason for an emotional flare-up than ever before when the German comes out to meet him here.

It is also the chance that the very intensity of his desire to win may result in a defeat.

The main factor now at Sharkey's camp is to prevent the consuming fire of revenge from burning up too much of his reserve supply.

At Schmeling's Camp.

The mental or psychological situation at Max Schmeling's Kingston camp is entirely different. To the German this is just another fight—another opponent to be beaten in defense of a title he hopes some day will bring in more cash than it has brought so far.

Schmeling must have resented Sharkey's promise to knock him out of the ring, but so far he hasn't shown it. The German is a determined, steady plunger in the direction of form and confidence.

He has been under no emotional strain, under no outside mental pressure. He is banking largely on condition, courage and coolness.

Against Stribling he was a much better boxer than he was against Sharkey, when he looked like a novice. He had come quite a distance in one year. He believes he has continued this improvement and that he will be able to show a pronounced advance over his Stribling exhibition. This has been his goal, both along lines of offense and defense.

Schmeling always keeps in condition. He lives simply. His food is plain, and always has been. He is never inclined in the direction of worry. He doesn't expect to open with any flare of fireworks, but he doesn't believe that Sharkey is going to hand him another boxing lesson as he did two years ago.

In spite of this, Schmeling knows he is going out against a more dangerous opponent than he has ever faced. He knows that Sharkey is a good boxer who can hit with either hand, and that Sharkey has been his own worst enemy.

Schmeling says he never makes up any advance plan, but works one out after the fight starts. But he will need better defense against Sharkey than he used against Stribling at the start, for there will be a potential knockout in every punch the sailor throws.

Schmeling will soon sense the fact that there will be a far different mental attitude on Sharkey's part from that which Stribling carried into the ring at Cleveland nearly a year ago.

Schmeling's training and his mental side Tunney before Philadelphia and Chicago. His whole attitude is on the casual side, based partly on confidence and partly on a temperate free from worry. It is merely a matter of plugging along to reach the peak at the right time. There hasn't been any hurry from the start. There won't be any crowding for the next two weeks.

The German undoubtedly will be a perfectly conditioned fighter, both on the physical and mental side, when he steps into the ring two weeks from Tuesday to try to prove he hasn't been wearing a crown of tin for the last two years.

'HUMP' WAGAR BEATS HUDSON IN JAYCEE PLAY

Capital City Player Wins Spring Golf Title at Druid Hills.

By Roy White.

Humphrey Wagar, Capital City star, stroked his way to the top ranks of the Junior Chamber of Commerce golf circles when he defeated Scott Hudson Jr., an East Lake star, 1 up, Friday morning on the Druid Hills course in the finals of the annual spring tournament.

Wagar carded a 74, four strokes over par, and shot one of his best rounds to eliminate Hudson, who won a spectacular victory over Forrest Fowler, the medalist, in Thursday's play.

Godfrey won the second flight title with a 3-1 victory over Joe Camp. Dr. R. L. Brooks won the third flight and Claude Grizzard won out in the fourth flight, in the finals Friday over a rain-soaked course.

Wagar played the most consistent golf of any player in the championship flight. He started slow and continued to improve as the tournament progressed.

He reached a peak in the championship match Friday morning against Hudson. His short iron play was particularly good.

Cloudy Grizzard won the longest putt in the tournament when he defeated the writer, one up on the 19th green. Grizzard staged a fine rally on the last few holes to save the match and force it to the extra hole, with some good putting and excellent approach.

Results:

First Flight—H. R. Wagar beat Scott Hudson Jr., 1 up.

MASON-GORDON DOUBLE HEADER FEATURE TODAY

Twin Bills Hold Interest in City Amateur Leagues.

A double-header at Moxley park between Mason Methodist and the Gordon Street Gideons will be the center of attraction today in the Y. Church Baseball League.

Mason Methodist can clinch the first half honors in the Dixie league by taking both games while the latter can take the lead by a double victory.

In the Seawane league Grace Methodist and Bethany Methodist meet at southeast Piedmont with second place as the reward of the victor. It will be the first meeting of these teams, as rain caused a postponement in the first round.

Woodlawn Presbyterian and Underwood Methodist meet at the Waterworks diamond. The loser will be out of the first half of the Fulton league.

Where two games are scheduled, the first will start promptly at 2 o'clock, with all single games starting one hour later.

THE SCHEDULE.

Jingwah Club Gives Barbecue.

Members of the Jingwah Club gave a barbecue at the picturesque camp near Camp Highland, Ga., and senior and junior members, assisted by Will Hill, served barbecue to 250 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Williamson supervised the group, composed of Misses Hattie High Childs, Elizabeth Childs, Bernice Hall, Tillie Lillard and Mary Anne Wiles; Messrs. Herbert Bolton, Tommy Lawson, Joe Wolford, Bill Kitchens, Frank Arlington, Ashley Chambers and Yandy Mellichamp.

Many outing parties are held at this camp during the summer and winter and it affords a place for boys to rough it during the summer. The club dates back some 20 odd years, having originally been the "Zebra-doze" Club, with Will Hill having been the inspiration. When searching for a suitable place to build a camp, Mrs. Irene K. Potts offered to let the club build on her own land, a tract at Highland, Ga., bordered by the rushing winding stream known as Nick's jack creek, and densely populated with pines, hickory and massive oaks and flowers not to be surpassed in the state. After the passing of Mrs. Potts, her daughter, Mrs. Nell Potts Adams became interested in the organization.

TWO MORE ARRESTED IN FIREMAN'S DEATH

NATCHEZ, Miss., June 3.—(AP)—Officers here today announced that two more arrests had been made in connection with the slaying of Will Harvey, negro fireman for the Y. & M. V. railroad, the fifth negro fireman to be shot down in recent months.

Sheriff Clarence Roberts said that deputies at Vicksburg had made one arrest today and that a special agent for the railroad had made another at Canton, Miss.

MRS. W. H. HOWARD DIES IN WILMINGTON

Former Atlanta Woman Was Member of Prominent Georgia Family.

Mrs. W. H. Howard, formerly of Atlanta and wife of the general passenger agent of the Atlantic Coast Line railway, died Friday at her home in Wilmington, N. C., following a short illness. She was 50 years old, and a member of one of the oldest families in Georgia.

A native of Cartersville, Mrs. Howard was well known in Atlanta, where her husband was chairman of the Southeastern passenger Association for many years. He was prominent in civic and social affairs of the city until two years ago, when the family removed to the North Carolina city.

Funeral services will be held in Wilmington today.

Mrs. Howard before her marriage was the former Miss Elizabeth Lumpkin, whose parents were leading citizens of Cartersville. While in Atlanta Mrs. Howard was a member of many women's clubs and organizations, and was active in the work of All Saints' Episcopal church.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. W. H. Howard, of Cartersville; two daughters, Miss Louise and Miss Elizabeth Howard; one son, William H. Howard Jr.; and one brother, Will Henry Lumpkin, of Dalton, Ga.

Memorial ceremonies celebrating the 124th anniversary of Jefferson Davis' birthday, and sponsored by the Crawford W. Long chapter, U. D. C., were held at the Confederate Soldiers' home Friday afternoon. The program, of which Mrs. Mattie Wright, first vice president of the Crawford W. Long chapter, was in charge, was participated in by U. D. C. members and residents of the home.

Mrs. Horace Holden spoke on the life of Davis, first and last president of the Confederacy, and presented the library of the home with a book on Robert Louis Stevenson, Robert L. Avery accepted the gift for the home. Mrs. Wright offered a vocal solo, "A Song That Reached My Heart."

Mrs. Eugenia Long Harper, a daughter of Crawford W. Long, president of the U. D. C. chapter, named for her father.

Channing Cope, for many years identified with the business and civic life of Atlanta, Friday entered as the fourth contestant for congress from the fifth Georgia district, opposing the incumbent, Robert Ramspeck. He is offering on a prohibition referendum platform.

Cope is governor of the Lions of Georgia, he is vice president of the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, former chairman of the Greater Georgia committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and was founder and first president of the Atlanta Sandlot Sports league.

He asserted he will work untiringly and unceasingly for a referendum on the national prohibition question seeking to gain a free expression of the voters as to whether they want prohibition. He pointed out that if it is not wanted, it will be harder to enforce, but that if the people vote it, enforcement will be made easier.

Text of his announcement follows: Having harbored for years an ambition to represent this district in congress, and having come to the conclusion after mature deliberation that we need a change at this time, and having been assured by hundreds of citizens, both friends and strangers to me, that my views along lines of national policy are more in keeping with those of the citizenry of the fifth district than those of our present representative in congress, I have decided to enter the race, subject to the democratic primary to be held September 14.

"I am not prepared at this time to announce a complete platform on which I will ask the support of the district voters. However, there is no need delaying a statement of my stand on the prohibition question. I favor a referendum on this issue to the people of the United States.

"I am firmly convinced that unless the prohibition law has the express support of the general public, enforcement constitutes a hopeless task. On the other hand, I am equally convinced that if the people want national prohibition, an expression by them to that effect will constitute an inestimable aid in its enforcement.

"Therefore, if elected, I shall advocate and work untiringly to the end that the people of my district shall have the opportunity to express themselves on this much-discussed question.

"I have been a continuous resident of Fulton county for the past 16 years and have been actively identified with the civic and business life of the community, particularly with reference to the rehabilitation of farming in Georgia. In this work I have been thrown in constant contact and have had to deal with leaders of various groups, and the training which I have thus received in harmonizing and co-ordinating conflicting interests fits me, I believe, for the duties which devolve upon congressmen from a district like ours.

"If upon a consideration of my views as they are presented from time to time during the campaign, you think I would make you a more satisfactory representative than those who will oppose me in this race, I will appreciate your support, and when elected will endeavor to merit the confidence which that support voices."

OFFICERS PROBE DEATH OF 78-YEAR-OLD WOMAN

HILLSBORO, Ore., June 3.—(AP)—Investigators today sought to penetrate the maze of mystifying circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Koerber, 78, the while maintaining a tight-lipped silence concerning her findings.

The stomach of the aged woman has been removed and sent to the University of Oregon Medical school at Portland for examination.

Mrs. Koerber died Wednesday two hours after she had been found, horribly burned, in the basement of the Free Methodist church parsonage here. She was found by her daughter, the Rev. Nathalie Koerber, pastor of the church, upon her return from a shopping tour. Mrs. Koerber died without making a statement.

Officers said they learned that the two girls exchanged words and were reproved by their mother. A few moments later, as the family sat in the yard, Pauline went to her room, secured a pistol from a bureau and shot herself fatally.

Merchants will not be allowed to display arms in their windows, and even those licensed to carry them may not enter public houses or take part in public festivities armed.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

"Nature puts me out," cried the great English painter Turner. Nature always puts us out if we try to outdo her. The layman walking in the great room of the National Art Gallery of London where a full collection of Turner's paintings are displayed can readily understand this exclamation of his, for he, to the layman's eye, tried to outdo nature. As lavish as is or color brush, his is more lavish. As superabundant and varied as is her detail to the novice's eye, Turner would outdo her. Nature always puts us out if we try to outdo her.

Oliver Wendell Holmes once remarked: "You can throw nature out but she is certain to return." Over a period of two years this column has received a voluminous collection of letters from women all over the United States and, as humiliating to feminine pride as it may be, the burden of these letters is a wall from the women that have written them, a wall concerning their relation to the men of whom they have written. One reads them and weeps over the heartaches that are hidden in them and wonders at the follies that have been committed by the women that write them. One reads them and ponders the new era, the era in which the women have made abortive attempts to outdo nature.

We are certainly in the midst of a period of evolution as regards the relation of the sexes. Tragically enough the women are "evolving" faster than the men. The women have got to the stage where they feel an equality that urges them to speak out and assert their belief in their equality may in some instances their superiority. But the men, they have lagged behind, as far as recognition of this feminine claim is concerned. Like Hippolytus of old, their tongues have sworn but their minds remain unsworn. They are still yearning for, and silently demanding the old homage that was theirs without question in former generations. It behooves every woman to stop and ask herself this question, "Shall I run the risk of finding a man that has kept pace with the times, with the new ideas, or shall I sleep a my pace in order to keep step with those that haven't caught up with the progression?"

Nature puts us out but she gives us, gratis, some excellent object lessons as to how we may come in with her and share her secrets. Look at the flower of cardinal in your garden. See how he preens himself before the admiring gaze of his sombre hued mate. She has no quarrel with his created elegance. Is he not hers? Does not her very presence make his crest higher, his color redder and his song sweeter? Does not the imperative note in his voice bespeak his dependence upon her, his pride in her and his love for her? Nature letting us into her deep mysteries.

Culbertson on Contract

An Exhibition of Restraint

BY ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Some 20 months ago, while playing in an international match in London with Theodore A. Lightner as my partner, I invented a bid. Mr. Lightner had opened the bidding with one diamond. I held nine hearts, including the four top honors. My holding did not justify a forcing Takeout, and yet it was so strong that it justified a try for Slam if I could correctly picture my holding to my partner. Mr. Lightner is a great player and can draw inferences with marvelous precision. I bid five hearts, and Mr. Lightner passed. Inasmuch as the opponents held two Aces, we made our contract of five hearts, and no more.

The other day an almost identical situation occurred in the city of Louisville, in a Duplicate game, and not all the players, according to my opponent, William J. Bell, showed the same restraint or reached the proper contract.

The hand and bidding were:
East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

and now many Souths bid either five notrump or six diamonds, and the hand was inevitably doomed to defeat. Undoubtedly, North's proper bid after his partner's Opening bid, with his hand, is five spades, a bid which is both an invitation and a warning. It clearly pictures the tremendous mass strength in the spade suit, but denies that the holder has a better bid, which would be a Forcing Takeout. Therefore, the hand does not hold a tremendous spade suit and another Ace, because, if East held such a strong trump suit, as well as another Ace, he would then make a Forcing Takeout and reach the best bid in the hands gradually. North has pointed the way to South, and South should heed the warning.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The safe bidding of Slams is based upon the elimination of the possibility of losing tricks to adversely held honors—not upon the count of playing tricks, however accurate that count may be in reaching a game contract. (Copyright, 1932, for The Constitution.)

JUST NUTS

Sudden Love

By ELIZABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.
Esmee Sully spends her tedious young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. The widowed Mrs. Sully loves her children blindly, but doesn't know how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Law, the older son, is a dissipated young playboy. Esmee, the youngest, is misbegotten by her mother. Cradling the oldest, she has been devoted by her husband, Jimmy Connelley, a crook lawyer, for years and change, is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. Then she meets Michael Marriott, a dissipated young playboy. It's love at first sight. She feels his need of her is real. Returning home one evening, Esmee finds Michael waiting for her. He's dressed in a suit and she's in a nightgown. He registers as his wife, Claire Connelley, Michael's sister, tells Esmee that Michael is engaged. But when Michael calls, Esmee goes to see him. He tells her his engagement is broken and begs her to marry him. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"Little Esmee... Poor little lovely Esmee."
"But, Michael, dear... There's your sister—"
"Yes, there she is," he said. "And there she can stay."
"And there's—Linnett—"
"I've told her, little darling. I'm free now."
"But maybe I'm not—not suitable, Michael."
"My God! Can't you understand?" he cried with his quick impatience. "It's got to be you. The moment I saw you I knew I'd got to have you. I only drank and made a clown of myself because I hadn't found you. Now I'll stop all that. As soon as you marry me I'm going to work on a new play. It's been in my mind for six months. There didn't seem any sense in doing anything until I found you."

"Only, Michael... O, Michael! If I was just sure I wouldn't do you any harm—"

"Really, you're an awful little idiot, darling," he said. "You won't see what you've done to me. There's something in you that I've never, all my life, found in any one else."

"You don't really feel like that, Michael?"

He held her tighter.

"I'll make you believe how I feel," he said.

But in all his young ardor, he was still getting to her. His caresses were honorable, tender. She felt no shame, no fear, or constraint with Michael.

"We're going to be married next week," he said. "We'll live anywhere, anywhere you like, little darling. Travel, if you like, or get a home and furnish it."

There was a knock at the door. They both sprang to the feet. Esmee with scarlet cheeks, put her hands to her wildly ruffled hair.

"Some one's brought a note for you, Marriott," said Twining's voice.

"O! See what it is, Michael!" said Esmee.

And her heart leaped because he obeyed her.

"I'll make you believe how I feel," he said.

"He does love me! He does!"

"All right!" said Marriott, and took a note from the outstretched hand of Twining, who instantly disappeared.

"Mr. Twining doesn't like me, does he?" said Esmee, anxiously.

"Like you?" said Marriott. "He's in love with you. He gave me hell for getting you down here tonight. Said—"

He had been tearing open the envelope as he spoke; now he glanced at the contents and then at Esmee.

"Look here!" he began, and abruptly checked himself. "Nothing."

"Sit down again and let's make plans."

But Esmee had read something strange in his face.

"What was the note, Michael?"

"Nothing."

"Could I see, Michael, please?"

"No, you can't. Please don't be a pest, darling."

"It's got something to do with me. I know it, Michael! Michael, it worries me..."

"Look here!" he said. "It's absolute melodrama, that's all. I'll tear the infernal thing up and forget it."

She held out her hand, looking up into his face with her clear, beautiful gray eyes. "I'll get you out of it, darling. I'll do all the worrying for you now."

She took the note and read it.

BY VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, June 3.—(P)—Cheerfulness flooded the bond market today and it staged its most vigorous rally of the year.

Headed by railroad bonds, which soared in general from 2 to 9 points, the general market enjoyed its sharpest rise for a single day since the year-end whirl on December 31.

Transactions totaled $12,467,000, par value, against $13,962,000 yesterday.

While the carriers dominated trading, the utility and industrial classifications were also higher.

Reports that the Federal Reserve bank was forming a fast price stabilization corporation with millions of dollars subscribed for the purchase of securities, caused pessimism to melt away from the market in the week to take second thought. Many former sellers were reported among the buyers of today.

Bankers that closely follow the market reported that early buying appeared in small lots—representing the purchases of bargain hunters.

Around noon, when rumors of an early announcement on the security stabilization plan took form, strong buying appeared, particularly in the rails.

Railroad issues which gained 2 to 5 points included bonds of Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, and Southern Railway. The latter, which had been down 1 1/2 points, was the day's biggest gain.

Public utility loans scored substantial gains, although less spectacular than the rails. Traction issues were firm.

Austrian bonds featured the foreign government group. The 7s of 1957 were up 7 1/2 points. Other firm spots were the German 100s, 12s and 15s, and the 7s, gaining 2 1/4 to 3 points.

Two new officers were elected and all officers of the board of trustees of Emory University were re-elected Friday morning at the board's annual meeting, which normally opens with the commencement exercises of the school.

Re-elected officers were Charles Howard (Candler) of Atlanta, president; Bishop U. V. Darlington, Huntington, Va., vice president; W. D. Thomson, Atlanta, executive vice president; and H. V. McCord Jr., of Atlanta, secretary.

New members of the board elected were Donald Comer, of Birmingham, Ala., to fill the vacancy created by J. M. Miller, of Birmingham, who resigned because of ill health, and J. Lee Davis, of Richmond, Va., to fill the place vacated by the death of Judge J. A. McCullough.

Elected to serve another eight-year term were the Rev. B. C. Chappell, N. Dantzer, Bishop Darlington, Bishop Collins Denny, the Rev. Costen J. Harrell, G. T. Fitzhugh, the Rev. J. J. Freytag, Samuel Tate and W. B. Brock.

Dr. Harvey W. Cox was re-elected president of the University and Dr. Theodore H. Jack was re-elected vice president.

Enrollment during the last scholastic year exceeded that of the preceding year, according to reports of the president and treasurer, and a successful year was indicated.

Sunday's commencement ceremony will be presided over by Bishop W. C. McDowell, of Washington, D. C., and Alumni Day will be observed Monday.

The final exercises of the preceding year morning when Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston University, will deliver the baccalaureate address.

There will be a number of degrees awarded by the university this year.

HOME DEMONSTRATION MEETING IS HELD HERE

Talks on the activities of the Fulton Home Demonstration Council, business reports and musical and dancing entertainment were given at a meeting of the county council at the Imperial hotel Friday afternoon, which was attended by a large number of women members of the 18 home demonstration clubs in Fulton county and old Campbell and Milton counties.

Mrs. Matena Cash, president, presided over the program, which included addresses by Miss Lucy Wood, county home demonstration agent; Mrs. Lela R. Mize and Miss Willie Wood, home improvement specialists, both of the Georgia State College of Agriculture. Discussions were held on county camps and evening courses. Elma Scriven and Vera White, demonstrators, gave a play. John Shinkler rendered a vocal solo. Other music was furnished by the Morgan-Stephens conservatory.

SALES TALK AUDITION IS HELD IN ATLANTA

A sales talk audition was held on Friday evening for 12 salesmen in Georgia of the Georgia Power Company and the W. D. Alexander Company, state distributor of General Electric refrigerators. The winner will compete in a national audition contest to be held in Cleveland this summer.

The winner will be announced later. He was judged on the convincing nature of his sales talk on G. E. refrigerators. The contestants who completed were: W. K. Moore, Manchester; A. R. Hudson, Swainsboro; G. B. Starnes, Rosser; Lester Holt, Macon; Richard Broadbent, Huber; L. S. Carter, Georgia; T. Laney, L. C. Culver and Douglas Kersh, Atlanta.

RESERVE CONTINUES TO AID U. S. CREDIT

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(P)—Federal reserve system continued to open market policy of injecting strength in the credit situation of the banks of the country during the last week by buying government securities totaling $50,000,000.

The amount was $9,000,000 less than last week and approximately half what the federal reserve banks purchased each week for five weeks in April and May. The $50,000,000 brought the holdings of government securities by the reserve banks to $1,575,000,000, $977,000,000 more than a year ago.

APPEAR IN CURB

NEW YORK, June 3.—(P)—The curb rallied vigorously today on advance reports of formation of the huge banking syndicate to buy securities, and the prompt action on taxation by house and senate conferees.

A number of active curb stocks ran up 1 to 3 points and a very large scattering of preferred issues jumped up as much as 5 points. Turnover was a moderate volume, totaling 200,000 shares, against 400,000 shares yesterday. Prices received somewhat from the best in the late dealings.

Breakdown of the world oil conference in New York was partly offset by new evidence of progress in stabilization of the industry. Crude oil production was reported lower for the week.

The American Petroleum Institute threw its weight into influence in favor of a permanent curtailment program for gasoline refiners. Gulf Oil advanced 2 points to 28 1/2 and Standard of Indiana was up 1 point.

Highlights of Wall Street

BY CHARLES W. STORM, Editor, News Service of Wall Street.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Higher prices for stocks in general today continued to reflect improvement in sentiment resulting from the additional measures adopted to balance the national budget. Knowledge that a $100,000,000 bond pool is being formed to stabilize the bond market and the revival of optimism.

The action of the market indicated that most of the urgent liquidation has been completed and that the market is now being held by the bank loan collateral for sale will have the selling off the market to give the general list time to recover to higher levels.

The bond market continued to show a strong undertone with substantial advance in the California public utility bonds.

The idea for a bond pool is due to the 12 bankers and industrial managers appointed to carry out anti-inflation measures sought by the Hoover administration. Rumors were current today that the pool had begun to operate but it probably would not begin to function before next week.

The work of this pool will rest primarily on congressional action, but it is expected that the maintenance of the government's credit.

The proposed formation of a bond pool was announced by the bankers and industrial managers who have surrounded the preparations, and those taking an important part in the pool were announced.

Louisiana's Lower House Declines To 'Invite' Long Back to Capital

BATON ROUGE, La., June 3.—(AP) With his title as "Kingfish" challenged by members of the legislature, United States Senator Huey P. Long today won a brace of moral victories when the assembly's lower chamber declined to "invite" him to go back to Washington and quickly passed four state administration tax bills which the senator has been steering through the legislature.

The resolution, "inviting" Senator Long to resume his senate seat and characterizing his activities in the state capital as "unwarranted meddling" and "a disturbing influence hampering orderly procedure," was tabled without debate in the house 12 to 12. Malcom Donaghy, East Feliciana representative and author of the resolution, made a brief plea that it not be killed, commending Governor O. K. Allen's efforts at budget balancing and asserting that Long's place is in Washington, and he should not be here trying to steal credit from the governor.

The house, however, quickly approved the tabling motion by Representative Frank J. Stich, New Orleans, administration leader, and then quickly took up and passed the four Allen tax measures which Senator Long took charge of early this week when he rushed them through the ways and means committee in a bitter wrangle with the bills' opponents.

A second resolution, "urging" Senator Long to return to Washington "so that Louisiana might be fully represented in congress," remains on the calendar. Its author is Representative Rupert E. Peyton, Caddo.

House passage of the bills, proposing new tobacco, soft drinks, insurance and electric power levies to yield $4,000,000 in the biennium for budget-balancing, climaxed a week of future over speeding progress of the measure through legislative channels, many representatives charging that they were being "railroaded" without opportunity for public hearing.

Shortly before the house voted today, Senator Long announced to members that "everything's all right—have agreed to compromise," and the bills were speedily adopted. The compromise referred to plans for amendments in the senate to meet opposition objections.

The senate continued the quick legislative tempo when it suspended its rules this afternoon to receive the bills and refer them to the finance committee, with a hearing scheduled for Tuesday morning.

Suspects Questioned In Film Kidnap Threat

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—(UP)—A maze of confusing clues were traced by authorities today in a hunt for "cheap chiselers" blamed for kidnap letters received by Marlene Dietrich and others in the screen colony.

More than a dozen suspects were questioned secretly by lieutenants of District Attorney Byron Pitts and Beverly Hills police in a quest for the gang which threatened to kidnap six-year-old Maria Sieber unless Mrs. Dietrich, her mother, paid them $20,000.

A man and woman still remained on the list for questioning. Officials have been searching for the gang since eight weeks ago when Miss Dietrich received the first letter, a demand for $10,000. Twice the malefactor eluded police traps.

Miss Dietrich herself returned to her set at the Paramount studios as usual today, refusing to be worried and insisting the plot was authored by some "crank."

Mill Workers Strike.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., June 3.—(AP)—Two hundred employees of the Spartanburg mill plant went out today in protest, they said, against a wage reduction and a policy of discrimination against union labor. There was no disorder. The plants continued in operation with partial forces.
